

Gustavo Rafael Collere Possetti

Associate Professor at Higher Institute of Administration and Economics, Brazil

Gustavo Rafael Collere Possetti is Doctor and Master of Science in Electrical Engineering and Industrial Informatics by Federal University of Technology - Paraná, Brazil (UTFPR), specializing in Photonics in Engineering and Automation in Petroleum and Natural Gas Processes. He has a degree in Electrical Engineering - Electronics and Telecommunications by UTFPR and in Environmental Engineering by Federal University of Paraná. He is research and innovation manager at Water and Sanitation Company of Paraná State (Sanepar). He leads innovative and sustainable projects in environmental sanitation area, focused on efficiency energy, bioenergy and resource recovery. He also works with instrumentation, metrology and quantitative methods. He is associate professor at Higher Institute of Administration and Economics, Brazil. He is a board member of the Brazil's National Institute of Science and Technology on Sustainable Sewage Treatment Plants. He coordinates the advisory committees about sewage treatment of Brazilian Association of Sanitary and Environmental Engineering (ABES) and is director at ABES-Paraná.